HOT WEATHER HAS EFFECT ON TRADE

Business Has Been Sluggish as Result of Dog-Day Temperature During Week.

iness. That's all. This is a summary of business conditions during the last week. The hot weather seems to have sapped the vital-ity of business generally. In every line P. W. little effort to create a ripple of interest. It is all because of the heat, and the langour and lassitude that is natural at this time of year. Next month there will the a change. Business men will sit up and take notice, because the buyers will begin to loosen up their purse strings and put more money into circulation.

There has been no shortage of money, no stringency in local money market, but the people have simply been sleepy with the heat, and have been too willing to take their ease in preference to getting out and hustling for the elusive bargain. There is sufficient money in the local banks to meet local needs, and there have banks to meet local needs, and there have been no heavy demands from outside for Salt Lake money. Instead, outside money has been coming in, but not for immediate investment.

In furniture lines there has been fair trade, Many small homes and several new rooming houses and apartment houses are being furnished. Local wholesale furniture dealers are securing a firm grip on the Nevada trade, and several large wholesale bills for small Nevada Hubbard Investment company. large wholesale bills for small Nevada the work were filled and shipped during the week. Furniture dealers from several of the small towns of the state have been in to do their buying for the fall trade, and the sales have been heavier than last year.

Dry goods men are making their usual late summer efforts to dispose of their stocks of summer goods, and bargain sales with attractive offerings of goods at low prices and have kept the feminine mind in a flutter. In the shoe trade light weight summer goods, principally canvas shoes and oxfords, have been moving rapidly.

REALTY MARKET SLUGGISH.

Many Inquiries for Residences-Few Houses for Rent.

The real estate market has been sluggish during the last week. The exceedingly warm and oppressive weather has been responsible for this, according to the dealers in dirt, and such a condition is not unlooked for at this time of year.

While there have been no really important deals consummated during the week, there have been a number of small trans-ing a little later in the summer.

Inquiries during the week have been almost entirely for residence properties.
This is in marked contrast with the class of inquiries that were noted a few weeks ago, when nearly every question asked was with reference to business or semibusiness locations.

"The trade is like a pendulum," said a pendulum," said a pendulum," said a pendulum, and cannot be legally sold in any other manner.

BRANSFORD WILL BUILD.

Store and Rooming House to Be Erected at Cost of $10,000.

J. S. Bransford has secured a building permit to erect a business block on West Second South street between Fourth and Fifth West streets, at a cost of $10,000. Work will be instituted at once, and the building hurried to completion.

The structure will have a frontage of 38½ feet on Second South street. One store will have a depth of 100 feet, while the other four, occupying the rest of the ground floor, will have a depth of 50 feet.

The second story will be a large rooming-house. There will be twenty-six rooms, all thoroughly lighted and ventilated, and will be finished in modern style.

The entire building has been rented by the owner, though the ground has not yet been broken. The ground floor will be occupied by a saloon, grocery store, butcher shop, barber shop and Turkish coffee-house and restaurant. The building will be ready for occupancy in about three months.

In the wholesale grocery line the efforts to secure Nevada trade have begun to bear fruit and several large orders have been received. The extension of the line of the Nevada Northern railroad to Cherry Creek, which has brought that part of Nevada market much closer to Salt Lake, is having a beneficial effect upon local wholesale business in many lines.

FLOUR MEN, ARE ALL AT SEA

Millers and Wholesalers Have Dif-

ago, when hearly every question asked was with reference to business or semibusiness locations.

"The trade is like a pendulum," said a prominent dealer yesterday. "It swings back and forth from residence property to business property, and then back to the residence property again, as regular will soon be unable to force it out, unless latural, and is to be expected. Such a change does no indicate a lack of confidence in the class of property which is left for a time uninquired for.

"Business conditions have much to do "Eastern flour is coming into the state in such quantities that it is demoralizing prices and hurting the trade generally," said a prominent wholesaler and jobber yesterday. "The eastern product is gain-ing such a foothold that the Utah millers are careful now. I doubt if it can be forced out of the market now, so good a start has it already gained. "Utah millers are now introducing it, and will drive themselves out of the warm of the state in such quantities that it is demorally.

"Business conditions have much to do with this, and the buying public is sensitive to the various kinds of advertising a community may receive. At times the advantages of a city as a place of residence may be exploited, and again business conditions may change elicibity and again business conditions may change elicibity and again business conditions may change elicibity and again the license and will drive themselves out of the business if they are not careful.

"The quality of the eastern product is better than the Utah goods. It is the quality that sells it, even if the consumer does have to pay from 60 to 70 cents per hundredweight more than for the local a community may receive. At times the advantages of a city as a place of residence may be exploited, and again business colditions may change slightly and start an inciplent boom in business locations.

"The same rule prevails everywhere all the time, and has absolutely no significance to the careful observer."

A number of deals are pending for residence properties, that will be closet upearly in August. An unusual percentage of outside persons has been looking at residence properties during the week. They have outnumbered local inquirers. These people have come from the north and the northwest, with some from the west.

"The statements which were made by a prominent wholesaler and jobber were repeated to an equally prominent miller, west.

The man who is looking for a house to rent has a hard time finding what he wants as the agents have disposed of virtually all rental property in their care. The demand is for four, five and sixroom modern cottages. Location seems to make little difference, if transportation facilities are available.

Every contractor in the city is being importuned to rush the work he has in hand, and there is general complaint because houses cannot be delivered ahead of the time they were promised.

"The statement that the millers are cutting the life out of prices is wrong. The prices are about the same as they have been for some time. The market, however, is a little softer because it is nearly time for the new wheat crop to reach the mills, and that always affects prices to a certain extent.

"The millers of this state need feel no alarm over the alleged enormous importa-

The company has also begun the erection of an addition to the factory at 1 Provo, 60x60 feet, three stories in height, which will when completed, double the floor space and capacity of the plant. It is contemplated that when the local wholesale business will justify such a step a factory will be built in alt Lake, for the handling of the local business. This step it is thought, will be taken during the next two years.

UTAH SECURITIES

CAPITALISTS PREDICT GREAT DEVELOPMENT IN MINES.

Judge Le Grand Young, counsel for the Utah Light & Railway company, urned from New York and Boston last night, after a stay of several weeks where he took preliminary steps ing to the floating of Utah Light & Railway improvement bonds to the amount of $2,300,000.

Judge Young did not conclude the negotiations for this bond issue, and it may be necessary for him to return in September.

Eastern capitalists are deeply inter-tember.

"Eastern capitalists are deeply interested in Utah securities," he said last night, "and are well satisfied with results in this state. They have great confidence in Utah, and are looking this way for profitable investments to a greater extent than ever before.

"Unusual interest is shown in Utah mining properties, and in Boston this is particularly true. The Boston capitalists have large holdings in Utah mines, and are personally interested in this section. They express confidence in the mines of the state, and feel that great things will come of the industry here.

"They are looking forward to an unprecedented era of development, and express the belief that new bonanzas will be developed within the next few years that will surprise the men who are on the ground.

"My trip was satisfactory from a busi-ground.

"My trip was satisfactory from a business standpoint, although the bond issue was not floated. The greater part of the work has already been accomplished, and only a few details remain to be worked out.

"These negotiations will take until Sep-

These negotiations will take until September to complete, and it may be nec-essary for me to return east at that time. As to this I am not certain, and will wait here for further developments."

Attorney General Breeden Renders Opinion on the Delinquent

Tax Law. Attorney General M. A. Breeden yes terday gave an opinion to Joseph Stanford, chairman of the board of Weber county commissioners, in which he said that when real estate is placed in the hands of the county for delinquent taxes, is offered for sale and no purchaser ap-pears the property becomes the property of the county and is treated and disposed of as other country property.

The opinion also says that after such real estate has become the property of the county absolutely the former owner forfeits all right to redeem it. It is not the policy of the law to confiscate or dethe policy of the law to confiscate or de-prive a person of his property without full compensation. The county commis-sioners would be warranted, the opinion says, in permitting the original owner, or one having a redeemable interest tant deals consummated during the week, there have been a number of small transfers. A healthier feeling is noted in the market, and many bona fide investors and home builders are carefully looking over saleable properties, with a view of buying a little later in the summer.
